Paul read his LLB law degree at Southampton University from 1999 to 2002 and then completed the Bar Vocational Course at Inns of Court School of Law in 2003. He worked for Lawrence and Co. solicitors between 2003 and 2008 and turned down an offer of pupillage with 2 Paper Buildings in order to transfer and become a solicitor.

He completed the Qualified Lawyers Transfer Test at College of Law in 2006 and was admitted as a solicitor in April of that year. He subsequently turned down an offer of partnership at Lawrence And Co. and joined Saunders Law Partnership LLP in November 2008.

Paul works in criminal law and his case work covers the spectrum of criminal offences including murder, armed robbery, rape, drugs supply and football violence. He is a keen advocate and regularly appears before the Magistrates Court and Youth Court.

Outside of work Paul is interested in music and collects Beatles memorabilia. He is also an avid Liverpool FC fan.
